

Department of Early Learning Coordination and Collaboration

What Do We Want to See?

What will it look like for Department of Early Learning to be an effective leader in the broader early learning system in Washington State?

How do we envision excellent coordination and collaboration between the Department and other organizations that serve children under age six?

The legislation that created the Department of Early Learning specified that it was to be “flexible, alert and intelligent” to adapt to changing circumstances. What will give it these characteristics?

How will we know the Department is listening to the community? Getting outside input? Asking right questions? Hearing from all parts of the community?

What will Department support for innovative local community early learning work and partnerships look like? What forms might it take?
